Voice posts. Wow. My internet friends have voices. Who knew?

Glad the trip is going well.

Also...I'm not sure what that is in your icon, but I'm pretty sure I love it.

It's synthesized. Never fear! Don't panic!

The icon is a fox with a quill pen. no doubt from some hapless goose.

g re: headsets' intended use:

In the days immediately before everyone had cell phones, my family took a trip to Lake Powell and Monument Valley. My dad bought four super duper ~~walkie-talkies~~ two way radios for us to use in case the houseboat and the speedboat ever got separated., but we mostly just ended up cracking each other up by screaming and giggling back and forth between the two cars on the way there and back. Especially when we drove up the side of that big mesa.

(I wish I had a picture to show, for anyone that hasn't been on that road and doesn't know what I'm talking about: Somewhere between CA and Lake Powell/Monument Valley the main road does this crazy switchback thing right up the side of a HUGE mesa. It's a little insane. But then, most of the roads through AZ and UT are - when they aren't completely flat. :)
